700 ATTEND DEDICATION OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS GLENDALE CLUB HOUSE

Bishop Cantwell of the Diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego Blesses the New Home of the Organization in This City

GRAND KNIGHT CURTIN MAKES ADDRESS

Harry Girard Formally Accepts the Building on Behalf of the Local Members, Who Are Complimented on Increased Membership

With between 600 and 700 present, the dedication of the Glendale Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 330 East Lomita avenue was held Monday night when a reception was given to Bishop Cantwell of the diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego. It was the biggest event in the local Knights of Columbus circles since the inauguration of the Glendale council. In addition to blessing the clubhouse the bishop donated $100 toward the building fund.

The program opened with a 45-minute musical entertainment given by Mr. and Mrs. Henri Le Bonti and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard, and included the following numbers: Duet by Henri Le Bonti and Harry Girard, "El Forza del Destino" (Verdi); duet, by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard, "Through the Meadow Gate" (Phillips); solo, Road to Mandalay" (Speaks) by Henri Le Bonti; quartet from "Rigoletto," by Mr. and Mrs. Le Bonti and Mr. and Mrs. Girard.

After blessing the clubrooms the Bishop entered the auditorium amid great applause. Grand Knight Jack Curtin of Los Angeles Council No. 621 made a short address and presented the Glendale Council with a beautiful silk American flag. The address of acceptance was made by Grand Knight Harry Girard. Honorable Joseph Scott of Los Angeles gave a fifteen minute talk, complimenting the Knights of Columbus on their work in building a clubhouse and also on their attaining almost a 200% increase in membership in 90 days. Mr. Scott stated that it was along the line of Glendale's wonderful round of achievement. He laid emphasis on the fact that the Knights of Columbus should engage in civic activities as well as the national and also emphasized the spirit of tolerance.

Bishop Cantwell then gave a eulogy on the work of the Knights of Columbus and especially of the Glendale Council. He said that he had heard of Glendale very frequently but that the reports could not compare with Glendale itself.

At the close of the meeting a banquet was served to fifty of the guests and members at the Casa Verdugo Restaurant by Mrs. Sowl The club rooms were decorated with green and gold wreaths and flowers and was very attractive. There were grand knights present from the Whittier, Van Nuys, Pasadena, Hollywood, Los Angeles No. 621, Junipera Serra of Los Angeles, Long Beach, Redondo and Santa Monica councils. District Deputy Borchard of Oxnard was also a guest.

The committee in charge of arrangements was headed by Lecturer Hugh Bryant. The reception committee included Past Grand Knights Peter L. Ferry, Henry M. Doll. H. V. Henry, Leslie F. Wright, assisted by M. J. Brennan and Leo McMahon.

The Glendale Council of Knights of Columbus is planning to give an informal dance Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the club house. This will be in the form of a surprise dance, to which the Knights, their ladies and friends are invited.

EAGLE ROCK FIRE PUTS OUT LIGHTS IN GLENDALE

Brief Darkness Followed by Service From Other Plants

Fire, starting in the Eagle Rock plant of the Edison Electric Company, turned off the lights in Glendale for a short time last night, and, still burning this morning, is estimated to have cost the company more than a million dollars.

Later reports, however, after a survey of the disastor, reduced the total loss.

The efficiency of the company was shown by the promptness with which electricity from other plants was cut in on the Glendale circuit and service continued uninterrupted.

A short circuit in a high tension wire about nine o'clock last night started a spectacular blaze at the Southern California Edison company's main distributing plant at Eagle Rock. One half of the plant, valued at more than $1,000,000 was destroyed.

The short circuit entered an oil tank used as a lightning arrester, causing an explosion, which scattered oil about the building.

The building is cut in half by a heavy fire proof concrete wall, and the fire was confined to one half the plant.

The plant was the largest in the west, and was erected at a cost of about $3,000,000. It distributes the electric power from the Edison company's Big Creek plant. The fire caused the power to be cut off, tying up all street car traffic in Los Angeles for several hours. The cars were put into operation shortly after 8 a. m.

Theatre, and will again be shown on Friday and Saturday.

CLERGYMAN NEARS COURT CONTEMPT IN SPEED CASE

Rev. E. E. Cochran of Pasadena Gets Time to Pay Fine Instead

Rev. E. E. Cochran who preaches in Pasadena, told Judge Cruzan of Eagle Rock in court Saturday that he would have to be allowed time to pay his $20 fine for speeding, or cancel his engagements to preach at two services Sunday.

Rev. E. E. Cochran said that he would not have plead guilty to the charge of going 31 miles an hour in the 15 mile limit, but he mistook the notations of the traffic officer on the ticket to mean 15.31 miles an hour. He said also that he didn't expect the judge to believe him, and alleged that the officer's word was always taken over that of the defendant in traffic cases in Eagle Rock.

Judge Cruzan warned him that he was bordering upon contempt of court, and told him he could have until Monday to pay his fine, but that the statement he had made was untrue.

Those present included: Mrs. L. G. Scharnikow, Mrs. W. A. Kulp, Frances and Wilma Kulp, Miss Margaret Taylor, Mrs. Ethyl Carpenter, Miss Muriel Wilson, M. S. Hollingsworth, C. C. McDowell, Miss Gertrude Champlain, Miss Louise Ayala, Miss Mabelle M. Evarts, Miss Ida M. Waite, Mrs. St. Clair Whytock, Miss Mary Circle and Mrs. Mae Rosenberg. A number of those present were from Burbank, San Fernando and Roscoe.

The fact that the electric lights went out for some ten or fifteen minutes, due to the fire at the Edison plant, did not stop the fun, as the leaders staged an impromptu community sing of some of the old-time melodies.

The next meeting of the Community Service Leaders' Club will be held early in February and the program of games will be in charge of Mrs. St. Clair Whytock's group. It was decided to hold the club meetings once a month, to which the general public is invited. The groups shall decide their own meeting dates. COLORADO RIVER PACT ENDORSED BY DAVIS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 9.—A strong endorsement of the Colorado river pact as formulated at Santa Fe, New Mexico, has been wired from Arthur P. Davis, director of the reclamation service, to Governor Thomas E. Campbell. Referring to the pact Davis said:

"It is a fair, explicit and statesmanlike instrument. It provides for all the known needs of both the upper and lower basins, and leaves for future development a large block of water which will take care of those requirements we cannot now foresee. Its adoption will clear the way for the development of Arizona's greatest resources."

The question of ratifying the treaty entered into between the seven basin states will come before the Arizona legislature during the session which convened yesterday.

Governor-elect George W. P. Hunt, Democrat, has expressed some doubt as to the advisability of endorsing the plan. Inasmuch as the new legislature is overwhelmingly democratic, ratification is regarded as problematical.

GLENDALIAN GETS RECORD FINE IN EAGLE ROCK

Renne C. Foss, a young man living in Glendale and employed by the telephone company, was assessed the heaviest cash fine in traffic court yesterday, when Judge Cruzan fined him $40 on a charge of driving his motorcycle 40 miles an hour on Colorado boulevard.

He was followed by Henry Courts, Jr., a 16-year-old boy, residing in Los Angeles, who was charged with reckless driving.

His honor certified the youth to the juvenile court, stating that such a case is beyond his jurisdiction.

WOMAN SWINDLER IS CAUGHT IN PASADENA

Worked Local Merchants With Phony Checks of $30 Each

At the regular luncheon meeting attended by fifty members of the Glendale Credit Men's association at the chamber of commerce auditorium, with Owen Emery in charge, a very satisfactory report was given on the work accomplished during the past year. It was stated that at the end of the fiscal year the association had 9,000 names on its list of credit ratings.

Some time ago complaint was made at the association meetings of a man who was kiting checks, purported to be payroll checks from some company. Later a young woman with a baby in her arms visited several of the local merchants and on making a small purchase passed checks made out for some $30, taking cash for the difference between purchase price and check. She is known to have visited 11 Glendale merchants during one afternoon and evening, and then disappeared.

The local association has been notified that this man and woman and baby are being held by the police at Pasadena and that they have confiscated a truck load of drygoods and merchandise which had been purchased by the check kiters during their work.

MULTIPLE LIST MAKES MANY SALES

$2,700,000 Worth of Property Enrolled by the Realty Board

Under the multiple listing system adopted by the Glendale Realty Board, the organization reports 460 listings already booked of property valued at approximately $2,700,000, the larger proportion improved residence property.

The records show that though January is young, more sales have been made since New Year's day than in all of December. The distractions of holiday shopping and the stormy weather are some of the reasons ascribed for a quiet end of the year. Business is said to be better than last year at this time.

HIGH FOOTBALL TEAM IS GUEST OF HI-Y

Coach Hayhurst Reviews Work of the Season of 1922

The second of a series of banquets which are to be annual affairs at which members of the football teams of Glendale High will be guests of honor, was held Monday night at the Baptist Church where the Hi Y group under the leadership of P. L. Hatch served an excellent dinner to 92 guests, at 6:30.

Paul Edmonds, president, called the meeting to order and acted as toastmaster, introducing Evart Smits, president of the Glendale High Student Body, who voiced the appreciation of the school of the work of the teams and the sacrifices made by those who failed to make the teams as well as those who made them in their strict observance of hours and rules.

Fred Stofft responded for the lightweight team, giving credit for its victories to the splendid backing given the team by the student body.

Principal Moyse voiced his satisfaction in the splendid school spirit to which he attributed some of the success achieved.

Coach Hayhurst reviewed in a very able way the season of 1922 giving credit where credit was due and pointing out defects which should be remedied the coming year. He declared it had been a wonderful season not alone for games won but for the reputation the school had achieved for clean sport. The handicap of the heavyweight team had been its lack of a man who could pass the ball accurately, he said, but that would be corrected, he declared, by a man now in training.

Coach Butterfield outlined the possibilites for 1923 and the factors necessary to make a winning team. One point emphasized was that football must not be completely dropped, but team members must think football and plan football, and those who fail to make the team must not quit but must have school spirit enough to keep on and help those who did make it.

Chester Dolly, captain of the 1923 U. S. C. team, who was the chief speaker, stated that three principal factors entered into the making of a successful season: Frst, the right kind of men and they did not necessarily need to be experienced men; second, purpose, and it should not be a selfish one; third, background. They could not expect to make the team if they had not lived right and observed the training rules. He cited the U. S. C. team which went into training from the middle of June to the first of July and did not find it hard because nine of them had never smoked. He emphasized also the fact that a boy could not play a dirty game of football without hurting his team, in other words that a clean brand of sport is necessary to a successful season.

The place cards provided for the special guests were in the form of the triangle, symbol of the Y. M. C. A. About twenty lightweight team men were present and fifteen of the heavyweights. The tables were arranged in the form of a U and were decorated with yellow acacia.

During the dinner and between speeches, excellent music was supplied by the Al Brown orchestra.

THREE TEAMS LOOM IN A. L. FIGHT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—There is a general inclination in baseball circles to consider rather lightly the New York Yankees as factors in the next pennant race.

Why? Because no strength has been added to the club.

A team that has won two successive pennants should not be in need of reinforcements, when it is a fairly young club.

The Yankees are not an old team and while the club has not secured any more new stars, the Huggins club ought to be stronger in 1923.

The pitchers can't be any worse next year and the chances are they will be improved.

Babe Ruth will be another person and when he is paying strict attention to his business he will be a great help to the club.

Bob Meusel, too, after being shown that he is a person of small importance on the team, might work up some pep, the lack of which has prevented him from becoming a wonderful ball player.

* * * * * * *

With the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox in the race with them, the Yankees will have no runaway. The St. Louis Browns are dangerous and the Cleveland Indians are building.

The Tigers and the White Sox look like the strongest contenders.

Ty Cobb has gathered himself a great team. Del Pratt at second base and Rip Collins added to his pitching staff will mean much.

Much depends, however, on the recovery of Harry Heilman, the great batting outfielder, who broke his shoulder late last season.

It was reported recently that the bone was not knitting properly and that physicians had told Heilman they were not sure that he would be able to swing a bat again.

* * * * * * *

Kid Gleason will have a sweet looking team of White Sox if Willie Kamm, the $100,000 third baseman from the Pacific Coast league, delivers according to expectations.

Kamm or no Kamm, the Sox look fine as they are, but a sensational hitting and fielding infielder may be the difference between the pennant and the contender.

Kid Gleason deserves to be rated as one of the greatest managers in the game. After the housecleaning of 1920 he had nothing left but a second baseman, a catcher and a pitched that later deserted him.

In two years' time he collected a team that isn't far removed from the championship class and might get there next season.

In the same class with Gleason as a builder is the Hon. Sir Patrick Moran of the Cincinnati Reds.

Pat had a pennant winner and a world's champion outfit in 1919, but the glory went to the heads of the boys and Pat, being of one-boss ideas, canned almost the whole team.

Of the 1919 champions only Daubert, Roush, Ducan, Wingo and Luque remain.

In three years Moran has assembled a team that looks like the one that has to be beaten for the next National league pennant.

* * * * * * *

Despite the frequency with which his structures have crashed under the weight of mid-season burdens, Connie Mack is a builder himself and his Athletics are going to get there—not next season, but many after that.

Mack has started to spend money and he doesn't need much more to get a fighting first division team.

AT THE THEATRES

'KNIGHTHOOD' TO START RUN AT T. D. & L.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower," the big Paramount special film long awaited in Glendale, starts its three-day showing at the T. D. and L. theatre today. Special time of showing has been set at 1, 3:30, 6 and 8:30 daily; so one will have to plan to attend early. The show lasts two hours and a half.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower" is unquestionably one of the greatest of pictures released in silent drama—it is the most gorgeous, most pretentious, dazzling picture ever attempted. Do not miss it.

Special prices will be in effect. General admission will be 55c, children 28c, including tax. Loges will sell at 83c, tax included. A few seats are held at $1.10.

Wednesday evening at the 8:30 show the Shriners' club of Glendale will attend in a body, numbering 100 for this special occasion.

"BROTHERS UNDER THE SKIN" AT GLENDALE

E. Mason Hopper, who directed "Brothers Under the Skin," which is at the Glendale theatre today, is known as the W. L. George of the screen. George, the English novelist, has gained a reputation for his almost uncanny knowledge of women which he displays in his books. Hopper, who is one of the foremost directors of motion pictures, shows his knowledge of femininity by the little human touches which he puts into his productions. "Dangerous Curve Ahead," a Rupert Hughes story which he directed and which scored a tremendous success, was full of such realistic and true-of-life moments.

The same is true of his latest production, "Brothers Under the Skin," a Peter B. Kyne story, produced by Goldwyn. The photoplay deals with two married couples—one rich, the other poor—and tells how the husbands brought happiness into their homes by the introduction of some refined cave-man methods.

Hopper studies women. He knows how to talk their language, about their children, and what they enjoy eating. His hobbies are cooking and children. The director has the largest private library of cook books in the country, his collection numbering 800 volumes. Whenever there are children in the picture he makes friends with them and plays with them. He has a little daughter of his own and is devoted to her. She sometimes sits and watches her daddy by the hour as he pilots the actors through their parts.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

THERE is an old saying we all used to hear when we were children that you can't eat your cake and have it. If each individual in this nation would learn the profound truth of this maxim and put its teachings into effect in his own life, many of the social and economic troubles of the present time would disappear.

S. W. STRAUS

You can't squander all that you earn in days of prosperity and have a competency for the periods of adversity. You can't waste your time in idleness or ill-advised pursuits and hold your own in the race for success. You can't keep late hours, dissipate, over-indulge your appetite, or overwork to an unreasonable degree, and retain the blessings of good health. You can't associate with evil companions and retain the honor and respect of your worthy acquaintances. You can't be a miser in your practices and still have the vision, courage and good judgment to keep up in the procession of progress.

You can't waste your dollar and have it; but you can spend it prudently and have its equivalent. You can't waste your years and have them; but you can employ them usefully and have priceless possessions of your own creation.

Guard your resources; conserve your strength; improve your opportunities. You can't eat your cake and have it. These are the truths of thrift.

CHINA BASIN TO MAKE BAY CITY BIG PORT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—When the China Basin terminal is completed, according to Chief Engineer Frank G. White of the San Francisco harbor commission, San Francisco will have one of the most modernly equipped and designed water and rail depots for the transfer or storage of goods from the seven seas.

Progress on the substructure of the terminal is so rapid, says White, that work on the superstructure can begin next summer.

The China Basin terminal was designed after an exhaustive investigation of the great army terminals in Brooklyn, Boston and New Orleans, and the great commercial terminals such as the Bush terminal in Brooklyn. Wharves, freight handling facilities, storage rooms, fire protection, loading facilities for ships, trucks, barges and railway cars are planned so as to provide for the maximum efficiency, speed and saving of labor. All the improvements and advanced ideas gained from the study of the world's greatest terminals will be employed at China Basin, which will be a model terminal in all respects.

HOSPITALITY HIKES TOLD IN BOOK

Tamalpais Conservation Club Tells Story in Periodical

By CHARLES H. SHINN
Forest Examiner

Fortunate are the readers who get the four-page periodical that is printed by tree-lovers of the Tamalpais region. Their account of days spent in the open in "hospitality hikes" all the way from Austin to Seattle, and from San Diego to Siskiyou, tells us that the next generation of Americans is bound to have more idealism, therefore, more happiness.

These lovers of out-doors who best know our California hills, mountains, forests, have learned to start late, when the beauty and the coolness of October are here, or even after the first glad showers have laid the dust and light frosts have knocked out sticky of tarweed.

A fine old Sierra shakemaker (graduate of Bowdoin) had a cabin years ago on a forested ridge over 6,000 feet high. He laughed when the "summer-birds of tourists" went out in September; he knew enough to stay until the snows began, for he loved the autumnal tints of reds and yellows, the falling pine cones, the nightly log in his fireplace.

Away back in the fifties, James Capen Adams lived all winter in just such a place. Only the forests were full of grizzlies then, and old Adams, who had once been a shoemaker's apprentice back in Massachusetts, trapped grizzlies, tamed their cubs and 10 years later exhibited them to admiring crowds in San Francisco.

TESTING TIRES

The United States Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce has been conducting an endurance test of automobile tires.

Up to date fifteen tires have been run to failure on the endurance machine, and it has proved interesting that tests of several tires of the same make show consistent results.

The mileage obtained on 30x3½ fabric tires have ranged from 1,000 to 4,000 miles.

The testing apparatus has been so rearranged that it may be run at night as well as during the day, thus shortening the time necessary to make a complete test.

A man who believed he knew all about parrots undertook to teach what he thought to be a young mute bird to say "Hello!" in one lesson. Going up to its cage, he repeated that word in a clear voice several minutes, the parrot paying not the slightest attention. At the final "Hello!" the bird opened one eye, gazed at the man and snapped out "Line's busy!"

MONKEY GLANDS HELP HUMANS, SAYS DOCTOR

Discoverer of Method of Transplanting Discusses Subject

By JOSEPH WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Dr. Voronoff, famous surgeon who made the transplanting of monkey glands international conversation, did not tell one hundredth of it, according to physicians in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania.

Experiments in rejuvenating youth by the use of glands has been under way by the medical world since the stone age. More than 30 years ago a French doctor compounded an extract of glands that was supposed to be the elixir of youth.

This liquor, however, had only a temporary effect on the patient and the effects of the stimulant soon wore off. The actual transplanting of a life gland to a human is merely the latest step in the experiments.

"It is a regular rule in the laboratory study here that we are unable to transplant from one species of animal to another," one physician said. "This means that if the gland operation is to be successful, the gland must be sacrificed by a human and not by a lower animal.

"Rejuvenation of youth as the operations are now conducted cannot last more than three or four years, for the transplanting gland will soon die."

Speaking on the subject of glands, the physician told the United Press that for the last few years the various glands of slaughter house animals have been dried and used in the search for the "Fountain of Youth."

Other parts of animals are used in the medical world. The latest uses of animal by-products are:

Extracts from calves' brains is used for children who are definitely developed, to stimulate mental activity. The brains are not transplanted, they are dried and an extract or powder made from them. Young calves' brains are also used to prevent hemorhages.

Bile is taken from the gall bladders of hogs and cattle and used for intestinal indigestion and to promote the absorption of fat.

For neurasthenia, mental disorders, premature senility, tuberculosis and similar diseases, the brain and the substance of the spinal cord of cattle are used.

The red blood cells of cattle are extracted and used in "wasting" diseases, while the kidneys of all slaughter house animals are dried to use in uremic conditions.

Various forms of the "adrenal capsules" of cattle are used for malnutrition, low blood pressure, melancholia, asthmas and other ailments. The glandular layer of the upper eighteen inches of the small intestines of pigs is used for functional indigestion and certain forms of diabetes.

Extracts for the treatment of gout and rheumatism are obtained from the liver of cattle and hogs and labled "parenchyma" by physicians. The lymph nodes of young cattle are used for adenoids, hyperthophy of the tonsils and for undernourishment.

"There are several thousand parts of the bodies of animals that are used in the treatment of human beings," the physician said. "Of course the ideal material would be of human origin, but it is impracticable as the source of supply it too precarious.

"We use wild animals the same as we do domestic stock. Monkeys do supply extracts for medical use and so do kangaroos and beasts of the jungles."

GERMAN MARKS SO LOW, MOVIE HOUSE TAKES FUEL AT BOX OFFICE

Europe also has a fuel shortage. This photograph shows the ticket-taker at a motion picture theatre in the suburbs of Berlin accepting coke instead of cash as the price of admission.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Warner of Los Angeles were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Godfrey of 325 North Orange street.

The bright weather is tempting Glendalians to mountain excursions. A party which will motor to Camp Baldy for the week-end is composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Verity, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sargent

TARNISHING OF SILVER

The bureau of standards has been investigating to discover the cause of the tarnishing of silver. The tests showed clearly that sterling silver is tarnished more readily than pure silver, and that copper is tarnished most readily of all.

HARRY JAMES TO STAGE GLENDALE NIGHT ON RADIO

Surgical Patients to Be Barred From Listening in on Him

How's this one? Harry James of the James Record Shop at 213 East Broadway recently contributed some of his clever monologues on a radio program given from a Los Angeles broadcasting station. He states that he has been advised that during the program a patient at a local hospital who had recently undergone an operation was permitted to "listen-in." However, she started laughing so heartily that the physician in charge took away the headpiece as he was afraid that the patient might break the stitches.

Mr. James is to have charge of a "Glendale Night" program to be broadcasted from the Los Angeles Times station sometime within the next two weeks. The program will be from 8 p. m. until 10 p. m. and will consist entirely of Glendale talent.

BRAVO, MARIANO!

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Giovanni Mariano has sailed from Boston for his native land of Italy. It is good to know that he plans to return to America in the spring. For Mariano is a man of quality, a man of rare good sense.

This I venture to say, albeit I have never laid eyes on him. I say it on the strength of a little incident connected with his departure, as recorded in a Boston newspaper.

Mariano, it appears, marched aboard ship carrying not only the baggage ordinarily carried for a long journey, but the shovel by which he had gained the wherewithal for that journey and for the vacation he intends to take. And he had spared no pains to make sure that his shovel would reach Italy in good condition.

He had polished it until it gleamed, had oiled it as a protection against ocean rust, and had wrapped it securely. To others it might seem a common ditch-digging shovel, but to Mariano it was precious as a jewel.

"It is a shovel in one thousand," he explained to the inquiring reporter. "It hangs just right. The scoop of the blade is perfect. It is a shovel with a soul."

He might have added, though he did not, so far as the reporter's statement shows, that he was taking it back to Italy because it was to him a symbol of achievement, because it embodied for him memories of work well done, work into which his own soul had been put.

No doubt there were times when ditch-digging exhausted Mariano. No doubt there were hours when the shovel was very, very heavy in Mariano's hands. But, quite clearly, it meant so much to him, in the way of opportunity to accomplish and to gain self-realization, that it brought him a far greater measure of joy than of pain.

Else he would have pitied himself for being obliged to dig ditches. He would have grown to hate his shovel, not love it. When, after years of toil, he was for the first time able to return to the country of his birth, he would not have taken the shovel with him—would, rather, have tried to forget that he ever had used a shovel.

I am reminded of the saying of a sagacious observer of life:

"Any work is good enough for any man, if the man is good enough for the work."

And of another, equally sagacious:

"All work is noble—work alone is noble."

These sentiments, beyond a doubt, are Mariano's, too. He has not an iota of false pride. He rejoices that work was given him to do. He glows with the satisfaction his worthy shoveling has brought him.

For all of us, whatever our work, and most of all for those of us who chafe and rebel against the necessity of working, there are thoughts worth pondering to be drawn from this little episode of Mariano and his shovel.

Through work, even the humble work of ditch-digging, he has found the way to happiness. He has found it because he looked at work from the right point of view. And happy he will remain so long as work means to him what it means today.

Wherefore I say:

"Bravo, Mariano! May the sun of the soft Italian skies shine brightly for you throughout your well-earned holiday.

"But forget not to come back. America always will have room and a welcome for men of your kind."

ALFALFA JIM HE HEAP BIG WIND CHIEF

PENDLETON, Ore., Jan. 9—Indian and paleface farmers are wondering if "Alfalfa" Jim, from the Happy Hunting Grounds to which he departed from Toppenish, Wash., several days ago will still control the Chinook wind which drives the snow and ice from the grain fields of the northwest.

During his lifetime, "Alfalfa" Jim was medicine man of the Walla Walla Indians. According to Major E. L. Swarthlander, superintendent of the Umatilla Indian reservation, Jim could bring the warm winds whenever he desired, if the proffered emoluments were sufficient to interest his peculiar and persuasive elemental talents.

According to stories, which were regarded by many in these parts as entirely true, ranchers in the old days would go to Jim and beg him to call out his Chinook and save the grain crops from an icy death. Jim was always willing provided he were offered sufficient inducement. When the desired amount, or "gift" as Jim called it, was forthcoming his powers would be brought to bear on the northwest's kindly element and the grain would be saved.

PROGRESSIVES OF PENDROY'S HAVE DINNER

Pendroy's Progressive Club had another delightful function Monday evening which began with a dinner served on the third floor at 6:30 at which covers were laid for 50 employees. Mrs. Elsie Williams, who had charge of dinner arrangements, was assisted by Mrs. Houtsel of the corset department, and by a number of volunteers.

Following the dinner was a brief business session at which Mr. Swearengen talked on the general topic of "service," and what it means in the upbuilding of a business.

The balance of the evening was devoted to "Five Hundred," dancing, games, etc.

ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS ON LOW-GRADE WHEAT FLOUR

The bureau's opinion was recently asked on the effectiveness of using ultra-violet rays in the bleaching of low-grade wheat flour.

Since cellulose is turned brown by ultra-violet rays, the opinion rendered was that, instead of bleaching the flour, the color of the flour would be turned brown. The following day a sample of flour was exposed for five minutes to the radiations from a quartz mercury arc lamp, with the result that the flour was turned brown.

Nothing jolts a narrow-minded man more than being forced to admit that he is in the wrong.

PROTECTION OF STRIPED BASS IS SOUGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Thousands of signatures on petitions for the protection of striped bass are pouring into Sacramento to be presented to the members of the state legislature which opened its regular session yesterday.

The petitions are asking support for all laws proposed to prohibit the seining of the striped bass for a period of six years. Three of the fishing clubs of this city have banded together to fight for the preservation of these game fish, the San Francisco Surf Fishing club, the San Francisco Striped Bass club, and the Pacific Rod and Gun club, having placed petitions in conspicuous sporting goods stores, asking for the signatures of all true sportsmen.

The striped bass, according to these petitions, ascend creeks and rivers to spawn, as does the salmon. Net fishermen who make their hauls at the mouths of rivers and creeks therefore take the bass before they can spawn, thus preventing reproduction and hastening extermination.

Sporsmen are agreed that a six-year prevention of net fishing for bass is the only way to prevent the extinction of the species of fine food and game fish on this coast.

FLEER STARTS HIS ANNUAL SHOE CLEARANCE

Wallace H. Fleer of 112 East Broadway is to hold an annual shoe sale to start Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock sharp. All shoes are marked way below cost and there will be plenty of bargains in children's school shoes, and women's pumps, men's work shoes and dress shoes. Mr. Fleer is owner of what formerly was Carney's Shoe Store.

Mr. Fleer seldom puts on a sale, but when he does he gives values that are worth while, and the buying public has learned this. He carries good lines of reliable goods and every day prices are reasonable. A more detailed announcement of the sale is made elsewhere in an advertisement.

JACK LAVELLE IS SERIOUSLY SICK

The many Glendale friends of Jack LaVelle, who was married about three weeks ago to Mrs. Rose Balerino of Hollywood at the home of Mrs. Carrere, 1152 North Louise street, will be grieved to learn of his serious illness. He was taken to the Clara Barton hospital yesterday with mastoiditis, and very little hope is held for his recovery.

FIVE REASONS
WHY YOU SHOULD INSTALL THIS
CONCRETE CESSPOOL

1. Our blocks are circular and will make a complete and compact circle. Therefore, a Cesspool built of our circular blocks cannot cave in.
2. Seepage is obtained through five uniform holes in each block, and not by spacing the blocks.
   Therefore, our circular blocks allow for all the seepage that the earth around them will absorb, without weakening the walls of the Cesspool.
3. Our Circular Blocks are made of concrete and are properly cured.
   Therefore, they will outlast anything else that has, heretofore, been used for this particular purpose.
4. Our Circular Blocks are of uniform size, standard quality, and must be used for Cesspools only, when perforated.
   Therefore, only one grade material can be used.
5. Last, but not least, IT DOES NOT COST ANY MORE.

Truths in Epigram

The elephant is never won with anger, nor must that man who would reclaim a lion, take him by the teeth.—Thomson.

A soft answer turneth away wrath: but a grievous word stirreth up anger.—Old Testament.

Art is long, life short; judgment difficult, opportunity transient.—Goethe.

THE GREAT GULF

Bonar Law makes plain in a few words the difference between the English policy and that of the French in relation to Germany. It is a difference so broad as to constitute a veritable gulf. England is ready to take a course tending to restore the credit of Germany, making possible the ultimate payment of reparations without attendant financial ruin. France demands payment, and this being withheld, designs to seize German territory at once.

It is not quite possible, perhaps, for people other than the French to get the angle from which the latter view the situation. They have been dragged through a bitter experience. They have seen their young men die by millions on the field of battle. They have beheld rich productive districts devastated, property effaced; the work of industrious centuries reduced wantonly to chaos. The desire for material recompense and for revenge, while not the noblest of emotions, is wholly natural. There is a fear, too, that Germany, unless checked now, will grow into a devouring monster in years to come.

The world outside deprecates the course of Germany in its former work of destruction. It realizes, and it sympathizes with France for the losses sustained. Its opinion nevertheless is that moderation would, in the long run, be more effective, leave scars less deep and hatred less markedly the dominant passion. It believes that the threatened conduct of France would be the sowing of seed for future wars, and perhaps for the ultimate extinction of the French as a nation. Therefore, without changing its estimate of the German outrages, it regrets to see the French reaching frantically for immediate rehabilitation, which they might not obtain, while the effort might be a fatal blow to the sovereignty of France.

It is still deemed possible that the soberer counsels shall prevail. The general hope must be that such is to be the outcome.

BETTER LIVE STOCK PRODUCTION

JUD M. HOLCOMB,
Livestock Editor California Farmer.

How best to promote the production of more and better live stock in California is a problem which is drawing forth the best constructive effort of the Southern California Purebred Livestock Association, an organization of leading livestock men of the Southwest. The production of livestock in Southern California is not increasing in proportion to the increase in population, yet general climatic, crop and market conditions in this section of the country are far more conducive to stock breeding and handling than in any other part.

At a recent meeting of the association at the new Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, the report of a committee which has investigated this phase of the work was received and adopted and commits the association to a huge development program. It is the belief of this committee that the general conditions in the Southland warrant the handling of more livestock on small farms and ranches. The light soil in many sections, the high cost of good fertilizer in small quantities, etc., should be considered. A few sheep, some swine or a small dairy add their share of profits to the general quotient of receipts which make the small farm the ideal income home.

The association proposes to place at the disposal of the new farmer or breeder the most expert advice through its secretary, W. W. Van Pelt, Riverside, California. Experts from the College of Agriculture will always be available to give aid to the small or large stock produced. The secretary of the association will gladly furnish any information the livestock man may desire.

FIGHTING THE NAVAL BASE

That the battleship fleet is based on the harbor at San Pedro is a circumstance worth many millions annually to the business of all the community adjacent. Besides this, it constitutes a reason for local pride. It adds life and color to the waterfront at the foot of the shoe-string strip of Los Angeles. The presence of sailors adds to the impressiveness of many social occasions and public functions. The friendship of the navy personnel is valuable.

There have been implied threats to move the base elsewhere, although there is not on the Pacific coast another spot affording such advantages. The reason is that complaints have been made concerning target practice. The battleships go far to sea for such practice. When the wind permits, the sound of the firing may be heard ashore. It might be mistaken for a distant blast in a quarry, or even for the rumbling of a passing car. It does no harm, impedes no traffic, and could annoy nobody but some supersensitive individual naturally inclined to protest at whatever is.

Manifestly it would be an error for the public to permit its attitude of friendliness and appreciation towards the fleet to be one whit changed because more than a score of miles off shore at intervals the big guns are fired. Part of the duty of a fleet commander is to keep his ships ready for any emergency. This is not to be done by anchoring them in picturesque grouping in the outer harbor.

Colonel Haskell, long identified with American relief in Russia, says "we shall be justified in handing over to Russia the experiment of looking after herself."

Were Russia trying to look out for herself there could not be any logical disposition for any non-Russian individual or group to complain. She is welcome to lookout for herself. That she apparently is unable to do this is attested by the activities of Haskell in being there with food to prevent the starving of the natives. The food, however, is not grudgingly given. The fault found with Russia is not by reason of her efforts to care for herself, but for her malign propaganda designed to set up disorder all over the world.

When the young man in the parlor loses sight of the girl's mother he shouldn't forget the keyhole.

SCIENTIFIC TEST OF FAITH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Each of us has a faith of some sort. And none of us likes to think that it is merely fanciful.

No one is pleased at the charge that his system of belief is a "cosmos without facts" (Zangwill) or that the dearest objects of his worship and confidence are matters of "lunar politics" (Huxley).

Dr. Frank Crane

At the same time faith can only be exercised toward things that we do not know, toward things that are not demonstrable. For if we know a thing it is not an accurate use of language to say that we believe it to be so. Belief, in the nature of the case, is the preponderance of probability.

The realm of science covers the things that are knowable and the realm of faith covers the region beyond that, a region much more important and influential upon the spirit of man than that of science.

But although these two realms are distinct, they have a direct bearing upon each other. They should never be in opposition, but, in the well-balanced mind, should exist in corroborative harmony.

And, particularly, science is the test of faith. That is to say, any intelligent faith must have the power and the disposition to accept the facts of science and utilize them.

Science and faith in the well-ordered mind are never in antagonism, for science never affirms what it cannot prove, nor denies what it cannot disprove. It only says that up to a certain point such and such things are true and such and such laws hold.

But that is not enough. No human being is satisfied with stopping at that point. Our instincts, our imagination, our love and hope and fear always go beyond.

It is from this excursion into the unknowable that the spirit of man draws all its higher qualities, such as its moral principles, its reverence, its nobility, its power of self-sacrifice, its loyalty, and its sense of duty.

If we regard man as primarily a spirit then he is vastly more indebted to what faith draws out of the unknown than to what science gathers from the known.

But science is of immense value to faith in keeping it sound and wholesome. A faith that scorns science and its teachings slumps into superstition and becomes a dangerous credulity.

The unknown must always bear a rational and friendly relation to that which is known. Once faith lets go of science it becomes grotesque, it weakens the powers of the mind, and, worse than that, it often becomes cruel and unnatural.

There is no reason in the world why a rigidly scientific mind should not receive and enjoy all the uplift and comfort of faith, and there is no reason in the world why one whose faith is strong should not think with scientific accuracy.

The faith that relies upon prayers and religious processions to resist yellow fever instead of killing the mosquitoes, the faith that uses amulets, charms, or religious images instead of intelligent sanitation against cholera, is a harmful and septic faith.

In the normal mind science and faith are as man and wife, and "what God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

"You Thought the Intruder to Be Him"

Synopsis: A short time ago "The Right Word" indicted the following constructions for error: You thought the intruder to be he; Who did you think him to be? Upon reading the article, J. F. S. of Wilbraham, Mass., questioned the statement that the following are correct: You thought the intruder to be him; Whom did you think him to be? Now another letter arrives on the same subject:

Pat. Mahoney, New York: ". . . I too take issue with you on the question of the right word, (1) I am inclined to take sides with J. F. S. I do not understand how you come to make a pronoun of the objective case a nominative of the verb, (2) Your definition is equivalent to a list of improprieties for correction under false syntax, as printed in Gould (3) Brown's Grammar of English Grammars, and they are as follows. (4) "'Him having ended his discourse, the assembly dispersed'' (Brown's Inst., P. 190).

"'Me being young, they deceived me' Brown's E. Gram., 190.

"'Thee being present, he would not tell what he knew'—Ib.

"The infinitive mood, as I understand it, is that form of the verb which expresses the being, action or passion in an unlimited manner, and without person or number, and the principal verbs generally take the same after as before them, except those which are passive, and the principal verbs are as follows: to be, to stand, to sit, to live, to grow, to become, to remain, to continue, to resign, (5) Can you according to the established rules of grammar place the personal pronoun 'him', which is of the objective case, as a nominative of any of the above verbs and still retain a clear construction." (6)

Answer: The foregoing letter should have periods at the points designated by (1); (2); (5): a colon at (4): an interrogation point at (6). "Gould" (3) should have been spelt Goold.

In such constructions as the following the subject of a verb is always in the nominative case: I am; he stands; we become.

Mr. Mahoney acknowledges that some verbs "take the same case after them as before them." They are, in part, as follows: to be; to seem; to become; to feel (sometimes); to grow (sometimes); to turn (sometimes); and also some passive verbs (contrary to Mr. Mahoney's statement); as, It was he; He was considered (became, seemed, turned) a good leader. Was considered is a passive verb, and leader is in the nominative case.

Read the following carefully: The subject of an infinitive is never in the nominative case; it is always in the objective case: the noun or pronoun completing the sentence, and following such infinitives as be, seem, become, must agree, in case, with the subject (objective case).

In "You thought the intruder to be him," you did not think intruder, you thought intruder to be him. Intruder is the subject of to be, and is therefore in the objective case; him agrees in case with intruder.

I shall be pleased if Mr. Mahoney, and J. F. S. also, will let me know whether he is convinced that "The Right Word" is right.

Songs of the Poets

Longing—By Matthew Arnold (1822-1888)

Come to me in my dreams, and then
By day I shall be well again;
For then the night will more than pay
The hopeless longing of the day.

Come, as thou cam'st a thousand times,
A messenger from radiant climes,
And smile on thy new world, and be,
As kind to others as to me!

Or, as thou never cam'st in sooth,
Come now, and let me dream it truth;
And part my hair, and kiss my brow,
And say: "My love; why sufferest thou?"

Come to me in my dreams, and then
By day I shall be well again!
For then the night will more than pay
The hopeless longing of the day.

LOOKING FOR THE BRIGHT SIDE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

No, this will not be a smile, smile, smile article, still less a glad hand ring-around-the-rosy game.

If there is one person above another who makes me desire battle, murder and sudden death it is the professional optimist, the gink who insists on smiling when he ought to be working.

If your house is on fire it may satisfy you to gaze on the concrete foundation and say: "Thank heaven, that can't burn"; but I prefer the arrant coward who turns in the fire alarm.

All of which comes back to a letter just sent me by a woman who says, "I always try to see the bright side of everything." So did the German airplane artists who were looking for something to blow up.

Understand, I like optimism—in reason; but there are some things that don't have a bright side until some industrious and intelligent chap puts one there. A muddled affair needs a polishing expert more than a glad thought specialist.

All things which suffer from neglect needs refurbishing on occasion. That applies to love affairs as well as brass bowls and silverwear.

The special party who has called forth these gladsome remarks did it by sitting down in the middle of a rotten situation and smiling firmly instead of taking hold of the circumstances of her life and analyzing them preparatory to remodeling them so that they would furnish a return in dollars and cents, happiness and success.

"I hope a change of luck may come soon," she writes.

Fine hope, considered as a hope merely; but luck has a way of not changing until somebody who understands its component parts gets on the job and so digs at its roots that it can't help changing.

The professional smiler is in the same case as the fat lady who eats potatoes and rice and bread and pudding, milk and honey, pie and dumplings and tops off her gustatory activities with a midnight lunch and then lolls back on her pillows and hopes her figure will change soon.

There is a bright side to everything—sometimes. There is also the dark side which can be made bright with the aid of strong muscles, a clear vision and intelligent ideals.

Our cheer mongers should learn to distinguish between the two jobs, the job of gritting your teeth and declaring everything lovely and that which calls for uprolled sleeves and a job of refurbishing.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

SPEAKING FOR HUMANITY

[Brooklyn Eagle]

Ambassador Child's address to the Lausanne conference on the protection of minorities in Turkey was in every way admirable. He voiced the feeling of all informed and humane Christians everywhere. Although inexplicably delayed, the American protest against the ousting of Greeks and Armenians from Turkey is the strongest yet made in behalf of those humanitarian aims which should transcend all others in effecting a Near Eastern settlement.

Mr. Child's speech should carry weight with the Turks and recall to the other nations their responsibilities for the people still suffering under the Turkish yoke. Because of his peculiar position at Lausanne it was feared that Mr. Child would hesitate to speak out on this subject, but he has done so in the most forceful manner. If he lacks the will or the authority to back his words there is no hint of this lack in his ringing declaration.

When he tells the conference that it should not leave Lausanne without providing a refuge for the unprotected hordes and made special provisions guaranteeing the safety of the races that must remain in Turkey, he sets the nations a definite task that cannot be shirked without bringing lasting disgrace to Christendom. And when he emphasizes the fact that this task must be shared by all, he gives assurance that the United States itself will not longer shirk its duties. That is all any one can ask, and Secretary Hughes and the President should be commended for having America take this high stand. Slowly, but surely, the United States seems to be facing its responsibilities in foreign affairs.

OF OR FOR?

[Memphis Commercial Appeal]

Joseph Tumulty says Woodrow Wilson is going to re-enter the political arena. But that message to the New York democrats has convinced us that Tumulty speaks of Wilson, not for him.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

That the citizens of Los Angeles have awakened to the fact that the criminal activities centering there must be checked, is a good thing for that city and for all the surrounding section.

HENRY JAMES

Men of the highest standing there have organized, but with plans not yet fully determined, to check the high tide of crime. Surely the time has arrived for action. The police force is not adequate. The sheriff, with many deputies, has not applied any remedy having appreciable effect.

It is readily to be understood that thieves and crooks have as keen an appreciation of the climate of southern California as anybody else has. So they join the crowds coming this way, and having no other resource, prey impartially upon these crowds and the residents. Thus Los Angeles has about the same excuse for crimes as it has for the multiplicity of automobile accidents. In a sense, the charm of the weather is to blame.

Burglaries of homes and stores, or reckless hold-ups, are frequent. Spectacular raids on individuals carrying large sums through the streets are likely to entertain the passing throng at any hour. So bold the operators, that they do not shun daylight, and the presence of a crowd in no way embarrasses them. Murder is common. Apprehension of a murderer, far less common; punishment a rarity.

The citizens simply had to do something about it. Perhaps they will get to the vigilante stage for a grand clean-up.

* * *

The tragedy at the little town of Keiso, in Washington, was a small affair compared with others that the world is forced to contemplate. But in a little community, where everybody knows his neighbor, an accident that wipes out a score of lives assumes vast magnitude. The loss of many of the victims under water, bodies doubtless being recovered from time to time, will prolong the period of depression.

* * *

Stories that come from Louisiana concerning the manner in which the mob, supposedly of ku klux, murdered their victims, are at present simply beyond belief. That any mob could torture human beings to death by the methods described, would bespeak a degeneracy that the mind rejects yet, as being impossible.

If the truth is being told about the actors on that ghastly occasion, respectable citizens hardly could be deemed as breathing freely while one of the bestial creatures remained unhanged.

* * *

Many will regret to learn that the Prison Development league is under investigation, and that so far as the investigation has gone, there seems to have been need of it. The organization was founded by a relative of the Salvation Army Booths. It was supposed to do some good work on behalf of prisoners and their families.

The records so far as brought to light tend to indicate that the good work was on behalf of the promoters of the scheme. They have not yet made their defense. Perhaps they have one strong enough to more than offset the present evidence.

* * *

Almost every day some new, or newly found centenarian, bobs up in southern California. The latest is Charles F. Ames of Altadena, 105, and not at all in the mood to quit. But alas for the lesson his example affords. It quite upsets the dope, and impairs pleasant theories long established. The venerable Mr. Ames uses tobacco variously and extensively, and has done so, he avers, ever since he can remember. He has a good memory, too. Also it had been his wont to partake at will of such red liquor as came his way. He still is in a receptive mood in this regard, but the flow is less copious.

The man who lives to be a century old is born with the necessary constitution. That is a large part of the secret of longevity.

* * *

A cut in the price of gasoline tends to cheer and uplift the soul of the automobilist, but he should not permit it to fly too high. As what goes up must come down, the more lofty the flight, the greater the impact following descent.

The gasoline gentlemen have not the slightest intention of losing a cent. They may let the driver keep his coppers awhile, but when they get ready, they will take the coppers away, with an extra one for interest.

* * *

Apparently the Daugherty impeachment that was to have been, but missed being, will have some result. Representative Keller of Minnesota, who caused the proceedings, and then refused to give any evidence, is to have a rebuke from the house. Perhaps this will teach him the futility of letting his tongue go off half-cocked.

Probably in the history of attempted impeachments there never has been another so abject a fiasco.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

They routed me out of bed at 2 o'clock this morning to hitch up the old 'bus and cart a doctor out to Bill Hedden's house. Bill lives beyond the city line, and usually drives his own car in and out, but this morning Bill was discovered in intricate kinks. When the doctor and I reached Bill he was as limp as a wet handkerchief. Tomorrow he starts for a sanatorium.

"I—been—a—dern—fool," Bill gasped to me in the intervals of pain. "I'll—never—do—it—again."

But he will. So will I and so will my wife and so will every one but the intelligent reader who has entirely too much savior faire to make that sort of a monkey of himself. For years Bill had been suffering from intermittent internal twists which seemed to me to center around the small of his back. He used to come to me and ask what could be the matter.

"Whadda I know?" I'd ask Bill. "I'm not a doctor. Why don't you go to a physician?"

"If it doesn't get better I will," said Bill.

Whereupon it always got better and Bill didn't. Some of us diagnosed his trouble as lumbago and some of us as rheumatism and some as a strain. Bill put on plasters and rubbed on liniment and took pills and washes. He did everything in the world except go see some physician who might, perhaps, guess fairly closely at what the trouble was and help him get rid of it. He never would do that.

Last night, after he came out of the last spasm and the doctor said he thought he might live this time, Bill admitted that he had been afraid to see a doctor. He had had a suspicion that these inner twists of his were not due to any minor and negligible matter. Being convinced of this he refused to have his conviction confirmed. He was a coward, of course, but more than that——

"It's hard for me to understand, now, how I could have been such a fool," poor Bill panted last night. "It was not that I did not understand that I was lessening my own chances. But when I felt all right I tried to pretend that it would never come again."

He may get through all right this time. The chances are he will. But the doc says he will never have his old steam again, whereas if Bill had had his gaskets lined a year ago his old engine would be as good as ever today.

And in spite of this demonstration of folly it is not likely that I will call in a physician until I, too, wake up with a howl in some dark midnight's middle.

SECTION 10. Every person desiring to have the City of Glendale collect and remove rubbish from any boarding house, hotel, office, shop, store or place of business shall pay therefor to the City of Glendale the sum of One Dollar ($1.00) per quarter, payable in advance, on the first days of January, April, July and October, for each 25-gallon receptacle to be emptied at any one collection; and the sum of Two Dollars ($2.00) per quarter, payable as aforesaid, for each 50-gallon receptacle to be emptied at any one collection. Any person desiring to have the City of Glendale collect and remove rubbish from any place of business may, in lieu of the above payments, pay the sum of Six Dollars ($6.00) per quarter in advance of the first days of January, April, July and October, for which amount the City of Glendale will remove from the place of business for which such payment is made all rubbish set out for collection on regular collection days, whether in the receptacle elsewhere described in this ordinance or in boxes, barrels or other containers of such weight that the same, when filled, can be lifted by one man. On payment of said sums a substantial tag or ticket shall be issued to the person, firm or corporation paying the same, specifying the quarter for which payment is made, the size of the receptacle covered thereby and that it is for removal of rubbish, which tag or ticket shall be made in such form that the same may be attached to or suspended from the receptacle aforesaid; provided, that when the sum of Six Dollars ($6.00) per quarter is paid as above provided, such tag or ticket, instead of specifying the size of the receptacle covered thereby, shall specify the place of business for which the same is issued. When rubbish is set out for collection, as hereinbefore provided, such a tag or ticket shall be attached to or suspended from each receptacle in which such rubbish is contained; which tag or ticket shall be of the kind required for the receptacle to which it is attached, and if not so attached no rubbish will be removed from said receptacle, except that a tag issued on payment of Six Dollars ($6.00) per quarter need be attached to only one out of several receptacles set out from the same place, or such tag may be conspicuously displayed near one or more receptacles or containers.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH FITLY OPENS NEW YEAR

By O. L. KILBORN

The first Sunday in the new year was marked by two heart-searching sermons preached by Rev. Clifford A. Cole, at Central Christian church. The subject for the morning discourse was "Laboring Together With God." Reading the parable of the workers in the vineyard who were paid each a shilling a day, though some began at the first hour of the day and others at the eleventh, the speaker said that this meant that all who sincerely took up the Christian life, whether in early youth, middle life or old age would receive the gift of eternal life. "But we must remember," he said, "that every parable uttered by our Savior is meant to teach one outstanding lesson, and that one alone. So the one we are considering assures us that there is hope for the sinner who makes the start in a better life at the eleventh hour, even. But the teaching is not that all can enjoy equally the glories and pleasures of the heavenly abode, for all will not have the same capacity for enjoyment. Those with the rich experience of a life-time of earnest service for the King will be thereby fitted for a fuller enjoyment of the manifold blessings of the heavenly land. This is well illustrated by the fanciful story of the wealthy woman who died and was admitted through the pearly gates, only to find her mansion one of very modest appearance. Just opposite hers was a palatial abode, which she thought more fitted to the position she occupied down below, but which she found was for the woman who had done her washing in the earth life. On expressing her wonder and dissatisfaction at what she considered a disproportion she was informed, 'We can build each one's mansion here only with the material of good deeds sent on from the life below.' So let us labor with God and send before us, day by day, the treasures that will build us goodly mansions up there."

The evening sermon was on "Blunting Our Moral Sensibilities," and the speaker emphasized the danger of becoming so used to evil that it no longer repels us. Immodesty in dress, evil suggestions of the theater and moving picture, allurements of the dance and card table—all these are apparent to us at first but finally become so common that we accept them as "not so bad after all." There is great danger in this to Christians, those young in years, especially, was the warning, and the Christ follower must firmly resolve, and stick to it, that the evil things of life will be avoided entirely.

The special music at both services was unusually fine. In the evening, a duet by Harry Marple and Mrs. Edgar Lloyd Smith, and a solo, "The Ninety and Nine," by Mr. Marple, were greatly enjoyed.

At the close of the morning service the newly-elected officers of the church for the ensuing year, elders, deacons and deaconesses, were consecrated to their tasks in a beautiful service conducted by the pastor.

NEW BROADWAY METHODIST IS UNDER WAY

Inspiring Sermon Delivered, Marking First Sunday After New Year

The pastor, Rev. D. M. Barr, at the Broadway M. E. church South, was greeted with a good crowd Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock when he chose for his text the third chapter and third verse of John, he referring to the sixth chapter of Romans, also the second chapter of Ephesians, and using the latter scripture to conform the words of the Savior's declarations.

"I chose the subject, 'The New Birth,' he said "on the first Sunday of the new year, because we should as a church put Christ first, yea Christ should be first in our serving, our giving, our devotion to his church, which He founded upon a rock, and the 'gates of hell should not prevail against it.' The only Savior, the Church, the only institution mankind can go to heaven in or through.

"The lodges and fraternal organizations are good institutions, and political parties have their place, but Christ calls but one organization 'His Bride'—the church—and when He comes He will take His bride with Him.

"The 'new birth' is essential, according to scripture, and is in due harmony with Christian experience, and necessary to Christian communion with our 'heavenly Father,' 'His Spirit' bearing witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God.' Rom. 8:16.

"There is power given unto men when the 'Holy Ghost' has come upon them; your 'old men shall dream dreams,' your 'young men shall see visions' and your 'daughters' shall prophesy, sayeth the scripture.

"I know many want to hold on to formalities in religion, and acknowledge that something represents something else, but we should stand out boldly for the essentials in the Christian religion, and not merely the symbols, nay we should not be satisfied with man's teaching, and man's part in bringing us into the Church of Christ, and that is good, but we should emphasize that fact of supreme importance, that 'God hath power to save to the uttermost all who will come unto Him.'

"The devil acknowledged the power of God, while during the Savior's temptation on the mount he said: 'Cast thyself down and the angels would see that He dashed not His feet against a stone;' yea, he acknowledged 'Christ's divinity.'

"Paul in Romans 7:24 in these words: 'O wretched man that I am. Who shall deliver me from the body of this death,' saw the mystery that was hid from generations, he saw the light of the Holy Spirit shine around him, when they with Him fell to the earth, and He became one of the greatest teachers the world has known. He was born again, yea the wise men like Nicodemus did not understand this, but Christ has revealed it to children, to men not wise, according as the world counts wisdom.

"'Knock and it shall be opened unto you, seek and ye shall find.'"

At the close of the service, the pastor announced 30 members having come into the Woman's missionary society, and began their work by the Ladies' Aid asking for church membership birthday offerings, when the whole church present, responded, and the birthday box jingled with silver.

Then came the first offering of the church membership for the budget, which went up into the hundreds of dollars, and cash to begin with, amounted to over $300.

Pat's command of language was wonderful, and as for arguing with him—well, it seemed absolutely useless, for he never failed to have the last word.

"Now, Pat," said a visitor who had heard of his fame, "I'll bet you five shillings that I can take you to a place where you won't have the last word."

"Done!" cried Pat.

So the two went to a place where there was a famous echo. When they returned Pat was jingling his five shillings.

"Me bhoys," gasped one of his friends, "there's ould Pat beaten the echo."

"Yes, it's thrue," cried Pat, "Och, be sure an' it was a job at first. The thing came back to me again and again, but I got even wid it. I spoke the last word under me breath."

She was a film star of recent creation, and she was paying into the bank the first instalment of her salary.

On the paying-in slip were the words, "cheque" and "specie." Opposite the first, which presented no difficulty, she wrote in the amount. And opposite the second, after a little coy hesitation, she wrote the word "female."

Lots of men would rather go to the other place after death if there were any marrying in heaven.

THE PATRIOT

Says Old Hi Green: "Boys I allow
To stay right close to this old plow,
And let the navy run the sea
Without too much advice from me.
I calcalate on stickin' to
Th' kind of business I can do,
Perhaps the food I raise again
Will help to feed the world of men.

"I know they make mistakes down there
At Washington but I don't care,
So long 's I don't make none and let
This crop that's on the ground get wet.
By doin' more an' kickin' less
I'll help this troubled world I guess,
And troubles won't be quite as big
If I get right square down and dig.

"I don't know how it seems to you
But I know what I'm going to do,
On this here farm, no odds if me
And Harding may not quite agree.
I'm going to let him be the head
While I am raisin' stuff for bread,
'Cause that's my job—I know it is,
The same as president is his.

"I'm goin' to let him be the head
While I'm a-raisin' stuff for bread,
I'll run this farm and him the state,
And we'll both get along first rate.
This little job he's got to do
Will keep him middlin' busy, too,
And I ain't really got the time
To kick, although the kickin's prime.

"My Ship of State is this old plow
And I can run it, I allow,
Almighty well if I don't get
To servin' in the cabinet
By proxy in the grocery stores
Instead of tendin' to my chores.
I ain't-a-frettin' bout what harm
The big bugs do—I'm goin' to farm!

WHERE SNOW FALLS

Some snow falls in all parts of the United States with the exception of Southern Florida, and in a few lower sections of the far southwestern states. Figures prepared by the weather bureau of the Department of Agriculture show that snow falls on an average on more than 60 days during the winter in northern New York, the upper peninsula of Michigan, northern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota, as well as in the higher elevations of the northern Rocky Mountains. Snow may be expected during 30 days of the winter as far south as southeastern Pennsylvania, central Ohio, southern Wisconsin, and southern South Dakota. It may be expected on 10 days in southern Virginia, western North Carolina, the northern parts of Tennessee and Arkansas, central Oklahoma and northern Texas. In the extreme southern part of South Carolina and other parts of the southern states, however, any great amount of snow may be expected on only about one day during the winter.

AMERICAN TYPO ACHIEVES FAME IN FRANCE

Given Credit for Origination of Standard Line of Type

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 8.—N. J. Werner, member of a newspaper chapel of the International Typographical Union here, acquired new fame among his associates here recently when a catalog, "Celebrities de l'Imprimerie," appeared in the official paper of the French Master Printers' association.

Translated, a reference to Mr. Werner, therein, reads: "Werner, N. J. (1858) American. Born at Belleville, Ill., March 14, 1858, inventor in 1889 and promoter of the systematic alignment of type faces, called 'Standard Line,' adopted first by a St. Louis type founder."

The custom of casting type faces on systematic lines has been general in the United States, France, Great Britaain and Germany for many years, but since the idea was not patentable, Mr. Werner did not grow rich because of it and even his identity as the inventor has been neglected.

Mr. Werner's case is not unusual. Failure to find appreciation seems to have been the lot of contributors to the science of printing. Historical investigators have never succeeded in establishing the identity of the original inventor of printing. Votaries of Faust, Schoffer, Gutenberg and Costar present only vague claims and it appears likely that Chinese knew the art centuries before its introduction in Europe. There are grounds for believing that the practice of selling printed manuscripts as written ones at high prices had much to do with the mystery as to the origin of printing. Caxton, most celebrated of the early master printers in English stood aloof from that practice, but he was not above giving the impression that supernatural aid was accorded him. On one occasion he issued a number of 700-page volumes with the announcement that the task had been begun and finished in one day.

FOR RESULTS—USE PRESS WANT ADS

Advertising Shortens the Road to Success

Do you doubt that a new hatter could spring up in New York and, with honest hats and brilliant advertising, in five years take its place abreast of the leaders of fifty years? It has been done.

Do you doubt that a new thought could arise in pencils, and, in two years, backed by good advertising, make a place for the pencil on the desks of the nation? That, too, has been done.

Do you doubt that a New York department store, in a bad year, could, largely through the improvement in its advertising, attract 110,000 new customers to its shop? That was done, last year.

A fine old business may consider advertising as a protection for today and insurance for tomorrow but to the young growing business it is a pair of seven league boots, which bring fame, friends and volume, years before their normal advent.
